DECLARATION OF PAGE ROBINSON
IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS'
ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION TO CONSIDER WHETHER ANOTHER
PARTY'S MATERIAL SHOULD BE SEALED

The Honorable James Donato

1 I, Page Robinson, declare as follows:

2 1. I am the Senior Director of Litigation and Intellectual Property for Activision Blizzard,
3 Inc. (“Activision Blizzard”). I joined Activision Blizzard in 2022. I make this Declaration on my own
4 personal knowledge and, if called as a witness, I could and would testify competently to the matters
5 set forth herein.

6 2. In my current role at Activision Blizzard, I am responsible for litigation and intellectual 7 property matters, including overseeing all pending and threatened litigation, IP licensing, and related 8 strategic decisions, and advising Activision Blizzard on such matters. Activision Blizzard keeps such 9 information confidential to protect itself and its partners from potential harm.

10 3. I understand that, in the above-captioned actions, Defendants filed the Declaration of 11 Jonathan Kravis in support of their Opposition to Plaintiffs’ Proposed Remedy Regarding Chats, as 12 well as certain exhibits to such Declaration (“Defendants’ Filings”). See ECF No. 634 *et seq.*¹

13 4. I understand that Defendants’ Filings include Activision Blizzard information
14 identified—by Activision or another party—as “HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL – ATTORNEYS’ EYES
15 ONLY” pursuant to the applicable protective order, and that, accordingly, Defendants have filed an 16 Administrative Motion to Consider Whether Another Party’s Material Should Be Sealed (“Sealing
17 Motion”). See ECF No. 636 (citing ECF No. 248).² I write this Declaration in support of Defendants’
18 Sealing Motion insofar as it relates to the Activision Blizzard information incorporated into 19 Defendants’ Filings and as described in greater detail below.

20 5. I understand that, where documents are “more than tangentially related to the merits of 21 a case,” this Court requires a party to establish “compelling reasons” for sealing. See Connor v. Quora, 22 Inc., No. 18-cv-07597, 2020 WL 7408233, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 15, 2020) (citations and internal

23 _____
24 ¹ The referenced ECF numbers correspond to Case No. 3:21-md-02981-JD.

25 ² In submitting this Declaration, Activision Blizzard—a non-party to this case that therefore is not
26 privy to discovery in the matter—is reliant on the parties’ counsel to identify references to Activision
27 Blizzard confidential information that warrants sealing. In submitting this Declaration, Activision 28 Blizzard relied on correspondence from Google counsel. Activision Blizzard reserves the right to supplement this Declaration or submit a new declaration if it learns that other confidential information of Activision Blizzard was included in Defendants’ Filings but omitted from Google counsel’s correspondence.

quotation marks omitted). In contrast, this Court requires a “lesser showing of ‘good cause’” for “[f]ilings that are only tangentially related to the merits.” See id. (citation omitted). I also understand that where a non-party seeks to preserve the confidentiality of its information by filing a declaration in support of a party’s sealing motion, one of these standards will apply, depending on the relationship of the party’s underlying filing to the merits of the case. See Civil L.R. 79-5(f)(3) (incorporating requirements of 79-5(c)(1)).

6. There can be no dispute that the lesser “good cause” standard applies here, where Defendants’ Filings involve a discovery dispute that is at best only tangentially related to the merits of the case. See Jones v. PGA Tour, Inc., No. 22-cv-04486-BLF, 2023 WL 5520771, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 24, 2023) (applying the “good cause sealing standard” to “documents . . . related to discovery disputes,” and noting that “discovery-related motions are [generally] reviewed under the good cause standard”); see also Ctr. for Auto Safety v. Chrysler Grp., LLC, 809 F.3d 1092, 1098 (9th Cir. 2016) (“Applying the good cause standard . . . as an exception for discovery-related motions makes sense, as the private interests of litigants are the only weights on the scale.”) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted). In any event, even the stricter “compelling reasons” standard is met where the subject of the sealing request is a “source[] of business information,” the disclosure of which “might harm a [non-party’s] competitive standing.” See Ctr. for Auto Safety, 809 F.3d at 1097 (internal quotation marks omitted) (quoting Nixon v. Warner Commc’ns, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 598 (1978)).

7. Activision Blizzard is a global developer and publisher, whose business is to develop, publish, and distribute high-quality interactive entertainment content and services and deliver engaging entertainment experiences to users worldwide. Maintaining the confidentiality of Activision’s Blizzard’s business strategy and deal terms was—and continues to be—paramount to Activision Blizzard’s ability to compete and success. Thus, Activision Blizzard has a legitimate interest in preserving the confidentiality of its information.

8. The Activision Blizzard information contained in Defendants’ Filings includes highly confidential business information of Activision Blizzard, the disclosure of which would result in serious competitive harm.

9. This information, in part, relates to specific terms of Activision Blizzard’s partnership

1 with Google and contains highly confidential information relating to Activision Blizzard’s business
 2 strategy. I understand that the existence of Activision Blizzard’s underlying partnership with Google
 3 has been made public during the course of this litigation, but Defendants’ Filings go beyond just the 4 existence of the partnership, and include specific details about this partnership that are not—and 5 should not be—public.

6 10. The representations in Defendants’ Filings thus contain highly confidential and 7 competitively sensitive information relating to Activision Blizzard’s business strategy and 8 performance, which would result in serious competitive harm if disclosed. See Epic Games, Inc. v.
 9 Apple Inc., No. 4:20-cv-05640, 2021 WL 1925460, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 30, 2021) (finding 10 “compelling reasons” for sealing “highly confidential information, including . . . business decision-11 making . . . belonging to [] a third-party non-party to th[e] action”) (emphasis added); United States v.
 12 Bazaarvoice, Inc., No. 13-cv-00133, 2014 WL 11297188, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 21, 2014) (granting 13 sealing request for third-party documents where they “contain[ed] . . . competitive information that 14 could cause damage to the third parties if made public”).

15 11. This information was appropriately designated “HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL –
 16 ATTORNEYS’ EYES ONLY” in accordance with the operative protective order in this case. See 17 ECF No. 248.

18 12. The disclosure of Activision Blizzard’s highly confidential information contained in 19 Defendants’ Filings would significantly harm Activision Blizzard’s business. For example, Activision
 20 Blizzard’s competitors could leverage this information to reap an unearned competitive advantage.
 21 They could exploit this information—to which they otherwise would not have access—to inform their 22 own business strategies. See Lathrop v. Uber Techs., Inc., No. 14-cv-05678, 2016 WL 9185002, at 23 *2 (N.D. Cal. June 17, 2016) (“[U]nder Ninth Circuit law, . . . [] reports are appropriately sealable
 24 under the ‘compelling reasons’ standard where that information could be used to the company’s
 25 competitive disadvantage.”). Indeed, the specifics of Activision Blizzard’s partnership with Google
 26 could be used as a bargaining chip by Activision Blizzard’s competitors in their negotiations with 27 Google or a similarly situated counterparty.

28 13. Preventing these competitive harms requires sealing of the Activision Blizzard information in Defendants' Filings. There is no less restrictive alternative, as sealing is the only means of preserving the sanctity of Activision Blizzard's highly confidential, non-public, and competitively sensitive information. Absent sealing, Activision Blizzard's competitors will undeservingly have access to this information.

14. The excerpts from Defendants' Filings that Activision Blizzard hereby seeks to seal, with the reasons for each request, are set forth below:

Location of Reference in Defendants' Filings	Reason for Sealing
Ex. 8 to the Declaration of Jonathan Kravis (ECF No. 643-9) at: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> p. 128, lines 19–22 p. 129, line 19 p. 129, line 22 	Contains Activision Blizzard's highly confidential, non-public, and competitively sensitive strategic business information

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct and that I executed this declaration on October 12, 2023 in _____.
